01 MISSION & COMMERCIAL STRATEGY

A Strategic Bridge Between Two Markets

The Experience Expo Motorhome is the premier business mission for the sector, connecting industry leaders from Europe and Latin America. Our goal is to act as a strategic bridge for commercial and technological integration, facilitating the transfer of European technical expertise to a rapidly growing Latin American market.

Every activity in this mission, factory visits, talks, institutional meetings, is designed to translate European know-how into concrete commercial outcomes in South America.

02 DELEGATION PROFILE

Access to Every Key Decision-Maker

Our mission gathers a diverse, high-level group of industry stakeholders, ensuring you have access to decision-makers across the entire value chain.

LATIN AMERICAN INDUSTRY LEADERS

Owners and decision-makers from Argentina, Brazil, and other regional markets who are looking to scale their operations and adopt industrial standards.

EUROPEAN PARTNERS

A group of European companies (to be confirmed) currently being curated, seeking to enter or strengthen their presence in the region.

SECTOR INSTITUTIONS

Representatives from tourism and camping institutions, plus government officials focused on international trade and bilateral agreements to facilitate commerce.

04

03 MARKET CONTEXT

Demand Is Exploding. Supply Never Caught Up.

Four years ago, our own research counted 50 companies building motorhomes in Argentina and 70 in Brazil. Today there are 500 and 700. The market didn't just grow, it exploded, especially since the pandemic, and production capacity never caught up.

50→500 70→700 85%

Motorhome companies in Argentina, in just four years.

Motorhome companies in Brazil, in just four years.

Of motorhomes in the region are still built by hand, not on a production line.

Only 2-3 factories in Argentina and 4-5 in Brazil run true serial production, nothing close to European scale. Caravan Salon is marking its 65th year; Expo Motorhome, its 10th. This is a young industry with an old world's worth of catching up to do.

05

03 MARKET CONTEXT

A Market Waiting for Real Brands

The Brand Gap

Leading European brands are already present, but distributors often resell them under private labels to protect exclusivity, so end customers rarely know whose product they're actually buying. Chinese vehicles and components are starting to arrive too, but quality concerns and unfamiliarity keep buyers cautious. There's real room, especially in the mid-tier, between artisanal shops and premium imports.

The Sprinter Problem

Buyers still follow the same two-step path: a car dealership for a Mercedes-Benz Sprinter, then a motorhome factory for the conversion. To most of them, Sprinter isn't just a base vehicle, it's the only one that counts, the idealized standard nothing else seems to compare to. That's a perception gap other manufacturers can close.

What the industry needs isn't just more product. It's process, technology, technique and knowledge, homologation and certification. But above all, it needs culture, the industrial culture Europe has spent decades building.
